Update 1:57 p.m.: More than 30 US-Backed Syrian and Iraqi Kurdish fighter were killed in the airstrikes, confirm Defense officials.

U.S. and Russian troops in the areas of the attacks were warned about an hour before 24 Turkish jets and two Turkish drones bombed locations in northern Iraq and northeast Syria. Senior Russian officials contacted U.S. counterparts to try to get Turkey to back off the strikes, but those pleas were ignored by the Turks, officials said.
